

Gregory Whiting - [X] - Unconventional Electronic Systems

Materials and processes for electronics that are mechanically flexible and conformable, large area, widely distributed, controllably transient and manufactured using printing techniques. Application in medicine, environmental monitoring, energy generation/storage, data security and waste reduction.

Printed Electronics

Thin Film Flexible Electronics

Transient Electronics

